Two Junior High Teachers Make Souvenir Plaques

ABOUT TOWN, and it's about time!

What with everything else, this effort is being neglected of late. But today we inform you that a couple of Junior high school teachers have turned industrialists.

They are George Carr and Edward Bell, who have formed the Carvel Novelties Co. and are manufacturing plaques featuring scenes of southern Illinois. They are selling as souvenirs of this area.

So far they have three different scenes: Pirate Cave at Cave-in-Rock, in black, red and green; Old Stone Face, also in black, red and green; and Old Slave House in black and green. Must have run out of red paint before they got to the slave houses.

None, in all seriousness, I think this is mighty fine, these fellows starting something that will publicize our area. The plaques are of three-ply plywood and retail at 59 cents.

George develops the scene and makes the silk screening for the multicolor job of screening. Bell does the sawing and will handle the sales.

The plaques have been on the market only a few days and are now at Hart's department store and Jackson's drug store in Harrisburg.

The two fellows hope the venture will develop into a medium of giving this area some good advertising and publicity with tourists.

THAT LINCOLN HEAD BRICK keeps coming up. Last week I figured we had exhausted all there was to say about them for the time being. And when Mrs. John Ginter of Karters Ridge claimed the brick was sure of it. She sent her daughter in to get it.

But it isn't over yet. I received a letter this week from Mrs. Ginter saying the brick her daughter took her wasn't her Lincoln Head brick at all. Her brick had been painted a light oak and had a little of one corner chipped off.

"I will be up in your town Friday, April 8, if nothing prevents me from coming and I will bring this brick back as it is not mine," Mrs. Ginter writes.

REMEMBER those scented papers the Daily Register put out the other day? In a local beauty shop a woman finished looking over that evening's edition and turning to another customer said: "Do you want the Register?" "No thanks," came the reply. "I already smelled it."

AND I WONDER if W. P. Turner is getting as many of my telephone calls as I am getting his since my name in the directory has been listed as W. P. Turner instead of the W. K. Tim Turner.

DID YOU KNOW THAT? The Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has a program in Illinois that gives financial aid to cases where children of war veterans and Auxiliary members are affected?

Illinois is the only state with such a program and the local Auxiliary takes an active part in it.

Application for assistance is made on forms supplied by the Auxiliary. Although children of veterans are eligible, affiliation with the Veterans of Foreign Wars is not necessary. If the case is approved, aid is given. However, responsibility is not assumed for doctor or hospital bills accumulated before the case is approved.

VFW Officers Installed

Officers of Harrisburg's Beasley Mount Post 3642, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were installed Tuesday night at the VFW home, with Robert Barber installing officer.

Officers of the post are Hollie Stout, commander; Lyman Partain, quartermaster; Leonard Walker, senior vice commander; Charles Floyd York, junior vice commander.

Roscoe Cook, three-year term as trustee; Cloyd Fink, one-year term as trustee; John Beal, adjutant; Wayne Shaw, chaplain.

Machine Rolls To Victory Over Merriam

Democrats Also Lead in Races In Michigan

By United Press

Jubilant Democrats held on to their Chicago stronghold and claimed domination of the key state of Michigan today as a result of spring elections.

The battle-tested Democratic "machine" of Chicago rolled to a decisive victory Tuesday as it put party boss Richard J. Daley in the mayor's office with a 127,199 majority.

Daley rolled up a final 708,660 to 581,461 margin over a young Republican crime crusader, Robert E. Merriam, in Tuesday's election.

The decision was hardly ever in doubt as Daley, a stocky, 52-year-old father of seven children, jumped to a quick 100,000 vote lead and held on to it.

In Michigan, Democrats led in five of eight races for state offices. Recounts appeared likely in six of the contests, but party leaders ended the Monday vote as the end of a 22-year GOP grip on state offices.

The victories boosted the prestige of two of the nation's top Democrats—1952 presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson and Michigan's youthful Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Adlai Backed Daley

Stevenson, who now practices law in Chicago, had gone out of his way to back Daley. Although his support was limited to two speeches, a Democrat defeat would have been a serious blow to Stevenson on his home grounds.

The Michigan returns were almost a personal victory for Williams and were largely attributed to his popularity in the state.

Both Stevenson and Williams are prominently mentioned as possible candidates for the Presidency in 1956. Williams, however, told newsmen in Washington he is "not a candidate" and Stevenson can have the nomination "for the asking."

Chicago Victory Expected

In Oklahoma, meanwhile, voters in another spring election were more than 3 to 1 in favor of abolishing the state's dual finance system for white and Negro school children. The change was in line with the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling against segregation in public schools.

The Democrats' Chicago victory ran true to form. They have not lost a mayoralty election since 1927 and have been beaten in races for the office only twice in 67 years.

Nevertheless, a fiery Republican anti-crime crusader, Robert E. Merriam, gave the Democrats their closest race since 1943.

Daley, an Irish son of Chicago's "Back of the Yards" neighborhood, brings a long and creditable record as state legislator, county controller, and state director of revenue under the Stevenson administration to the mayor's office.

His present position is Cook county clerk, but he will resign before he takes office April 15.

He is a lifelong Democrat and has climbed steadily up the party ladder.

Hall Says GOP POSITION STRENGTHENED

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today that despite the GOP defeat in the Chicago mayoralty election the party actually has strengthened its position as compared with last November.

"In that traditionally-Democratic stronghold, the Republican candidate, Robert E. Merriam, ran a hard-hitting race," Hall said.

They're Both Part of the Same Truck

NYC PASSENGER TRAIN last night cut a tank trailer in two parts north of Eldorado and the rear half can be seen where it rested about 200 feet north of the crossing where the crash occurred. Lower photo shows the cab of the truck, which is intact and from which the driver climbed out uninjured. The truck was hauling crude oil from the Eldorado oil field.

NYC Passenger Hits Oil Truck At Eldorado

The northbound Harrisburg to Chicago New York Central passenger train last night hit an oil transport truck north of Eldorado, slicing the tank trailer in two but injuring nobody.

The collision occurred at a crossing about a mile north of Eldorado in the big oil field about 9:45 p. m., shortly after the passenger train pulled out of Eldorado. Rev. C. Lowe will officiate, and burial will be in the Wolf Creek cemetery.

The body now lies in state at the residence. Martin funeral home is in charge.

Driver's License Stations to Close For Good Friday

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter has announced the closing of all driver's license stations in the state on Friday of this week, which is Good Friday. Arrel Watson Jr., local inspector, revealed today.

The Diesel locomotive of the passenger train struck the truck, which contained 110 barrels of crude oil at the time, in the middle. The cab of the truck was left intact.

The area around the crossing was saturated with black crude oil following the crash and part of the truck stopped about 200 feet from the point of the crash.

This morning the lower half of the oil tank and the cab were still at the scene but the front half of the tank had been hauled by truck to McLeansboro.

The Diesel sustained considerable damage and the oil-covered locomotive today was on a side track near the Eldorado station.

Following the crash a fresh locomotive was dispatched from the Harrisburg railroad yards and the entire train was pulled back to the Eldorado station before it resumed the trip more than three hours late.

Four Men Stage $200,000 Bank Robbery

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four men staged the biggest bank robbery in recent New York history today by kidnapping a bank employee on his way to work and holding him hostage as they entered the freshly opened bank vault. They escaped with $200,000, police said.

It was the second big robbery of the day.

One hour earlier, three thieves carrying guns in white-gloved hands, invaded a lower Manhattan jewelry firm. They tied up two men and a woman and escaped with an estimated $100,000 in diamonds and $2,000 cash.

The jewel thieves wore handkerchief masks and dark glasses as they entered the ninth floor jewelry firm.

The bank hold-up men rifled the vaults of a Queens neighborhood branch of the giant Chase Manhattan Bank as throngs in the streets under the shadow of an elevated subway prepared for Christian and Jewish holy days.

Famous Trichologist Tells Truth About Saving and Improving Hair

This new method of home treatment for saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Harrisburg, Illinois, Thursday ONLY, April 7, 1955. These private demonstrations will be held at the Horning Hotel on Thursday ONLY, April 7, 2 p. m. till 9 p. m.

CHICAGO (Special)—In an interview here today Mr. E. V. Safranski, internationally famous trichologist and director of the Millard Hair and Scalp Specialists said "There are 18 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one tonic or so called cure-all could correct all the disorders," he explained.

GUARANTEED

The Millard firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offer a guarantee," Safranski said.

Once a person avails himself to the Millard firm, recognizing his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this we offer this guarantee: "If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress at the end of 30 days your money will be returned."

HOPELESS CASES DISCOURAGED

First the Millard specialists are quick to tell hopeless cases that they cannot be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if a man is completely, shiny bald in he in this lost category.

If there is fuzz, no matter how light, thin, or colorless, the Millard people can perform wonders.

Every one is given a complete, private examination to determine the condition of his scalp and cause for his hair trouble.

FREE EXAMINATIONS

This examination is very thorough and highly technical, it requires 20 to 30 minutes. There is no charge for this examination and no appointment is necessary. After examination he is told the required length of treatment and how much it will cost.

After starting treatment, he makes regular reports to the Millard firm in Chicago, and a trichologist will return to check his progress periodically.

To spread the opportunity of normal, healthy hair to the thousands who are desperately looking for help, the Millard firm is sending specialists to various cities throughout the United States to conduct examinations and start home treatment.

NO CURE-ALL

"We have no cure-all for slick, shiny baldness," Safranski emphasizes. "If there is fuzz, the root is still capable of creating hair and we can perform what seems to be a miracle."

There is one thing Safranski wants to be certain every man and woman knows. If a recession appears at the temples or a spot begins to show up on the crown of the head, there is something wrong and it should be given immediate attention.

HAIR FOR LIFETIME

"If clients follow our directions during treatment, and after they finish the course, there is no reason why they will not have hair all the rest of their lives," Safranski said. "Our firm is definitely behind this treatment, it all depends on the individual client's faithful observation of a few simple rules."

HOW'S YOUR HAIR?

It worries you call Trichologist W. L. Organ at the Horning Hotel in Harrisburg, Illinois, on Thursday ONLY, April 7, 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. The public is invited. You do not need an appointment. The examinations are private and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

Reds Reduce Propaganda in Formosa Area

WASHINGTON — The United States and its allies are giving closest attention to signs that the Chinese Communists have slackened their propaganda campaign in support of their threatened "liberation" of Formosa, it was disclosed today.

Red broadcasts aimed at the Chinese people were said to be stressing less threatening themes.

There is evidence, for example, that Formosa propaganda fed the Chinese has dropped from a peak of 20 per cent of broadcasts last November-December to about five per cent today.

This reduction in Formosa propaganda has prompted interest in Washington, London, New Delhi and other capitals on the prospects of reducing tension in the Formosa Straits area.

To date, however, diplomats said behind-the-scenes efforts by Britain and India had not produced any paralleling soft tone in Red China's "tough attitude" against Formosa's island true moves.

Red China, informants said, still rebuffs truce overtures by blaming the United States and Nationalist China for tensions. Britain and India were said to be regarded by the Reds as United States "stooges" because of their truce efforts.

Here's a Look at "Suit of Future"

Named Staff Assistant by Senator Douglas

Harold D. Brown

CHICAGO — (UPI) — A designer of men's clothing has come up with a "suit of the future," which may or may not be what the well-dressed man will wear 100 years from now.

Designer Carmen Duro chose lavender as the color. The suit is a "fitted" garment by comparison with today's standards. The hip-length jacket has narrow lapels, fastening high on the chest.

It has two breast pockets and the customary two side pockets. All are patch pockets, with pointed flaps. The back is belted with three pleats from shoulder to waist. Black buttons run diagonally from elbow to cuff.

The trousers have box pleats inserted from knee to ankle.

A black, turtle-neck sweater and black, knitted hat complete the ensemble.

If all this seems nightmarish, consider the fact that Duro is trying to popularize the derby hat and the opera cape, not 100 years from now but today.

Cape and Host Suit

"Men's clothing is returning to the elegance and detail of the turn-of-the-century designs," he said.

The opera cape is of black cashmere with an iridescent red lining.

Duro said the garment combines the best features of both cape and coat. It has a cape collar, wide, gusset sleeves and a one piece back, cut very full. The lapels, facings and cuffs are covered with black satin.

The host suit for home entertaining is another Duro creation. The jacket is made of silk brocade in a tan shade with a diamond-like pattern in darker brown woven throughout the fabric. The jacket may be worn with lightweight silk, cuffless trousers or with black tuxedo trousers.

Duro said colors in sports clothes will be brighter than ever. He is featuring a sport jacket with gold and black stripes, no less, to be worn with cuffless silk trousers or with trousers of "a gold-metallic cloth."

Singer Mario Lanza Fizzles on $100,000 Contract

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Mario Lanza planned today to retreat "by the first train" from this gambling paradise where he fizzled on a $100,000 singing contract by failing to appear on stage.

The temperamental tenor lost the fattest contract he has had for six months when he left 700 newsmen, celebrities, and free spenders stranded without a star performer at the lush New Frontier Hotel.

Lanza failed to appear for a glittering opening night performance at the newly remodeled hotel and casino Monday.

Late Tuesday the hotel announced it has cancelled his contract. A spokesman said the hotel had no plans to sue the singer for breach of contract.

Lanza let it be known only that he would take his entourage of 11 back to California by the first possible train. Those who traveled to Las Vegas with him for the scheduled two-week appearance included his wife, four children, his makeup man, trainer, and maids.

The announcement that the New Frontier had cancelled Lanza's contract came after a tentative report from Lanza's doctor that he "is physically in shape to go on."

The official reason given for Lanza's failure to appear on Monday was "an attack of laryngitis and an upper respiratory infection" brought on by the change in altitude.

Collins Wins Truce Between Rebellious Warlords in Indochina

SAIGON, Indochina (UPI) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins, President Eisenhower's special envoy, won a seven-day truce today between Indochina's rebellious warlords and pro-American Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The agreement that again warded off civil war came after hectic hours of night-long bargaining.

Premier Diem and his armed rivals, the powerful "United Nationalist Front," agreed at dawn to sheath the sword and maintain an armed truce for a week.

McCarthy Hurls Perjury Charge At Stassen

WASHINGTON (P) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy today accused Harold E. Stassen of "perjury" in statements before the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee.

The Wisconsin Republican demanded that the foreign aid chief's testimony be sent to the Justice Department for possible prosecution.

Stassen just smiled at McCarthy.

McCarthy said Stassen "lied under oath" when he told the subcommittee that two subcommittee staff members in 1953 made transcripts when they conducted preliminary questioning of staff members for the Foreign Operations Administration which Stassen had.

The flare-up came as the subcommittee questioned Stassen about his agency's handling of a contract for grain elevators in Pakistan with U. S. funds.

Agreed to Start Over

Stassen had just told the subcommittee he will reject all bids on the disputed contract and start over again. It had been charged that the bid had been awarded to the highest of five bidders.

When Stassen insisted that transcripts were made of preliminary questioning during the subcommittee's 1953 investigation of East-West trade, McCarthy charged that Stassen "has just perjured himself . . . no transcripts were made."

"His case should be referred to the Justice Department even if he does hold the position he does."

It was then that Stassen smiled. "It should be referred to the grand jury for indictment," McCarthy later demanded.

Stands By Charges

Stassen stood by his charges in a newspaper interview that the subcommittee staff members, Francis D. Flanagan and Robert F. Kennedy, made transcripts when they questioned his subordinates in 1953. Flanagan was then subcommittee general counsel and Kennedy an assistant. Kennedy is now chief counsel.

McCarthy accused Stassen of "smearing" Flanagan and Kennedy and said they should be called to contradict his testimony. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said the dispute was a "corollary" issue, and refused for the time being to call the staff members named by McCarthy.

Four Teams to Compete in Cage Turney

An independent basketball tournament will be held at the Equality high school gymnasium Thursday and Saturday nights of this week, with proceeds going to the Equality athletic fund.

Four teams will compete in the tournament—labeled the battle of southern Illinois stars. Meeting in first game Thursday night will be Eldorado and Dari-Bar. Host team, Equality, will tangle with Taste-Freeze in the second engagement at 8:30.

A consolation and championship game are slated for Saturday night at 7 and 8:30. Three trophies will be presented to the top teams and five medals will go to the outstanding players of the tourney.

Eldorado and Taste-Freeze have both copped independent tournaments within the past month, and will be favored to meet in the finals.

Admission is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students Thursday night and 60 and 30 Saturday night.

Each identified himself and received a warm handshake from the vice president. An aide explained it was Nixon's own idea. He shook hands with an estimated 1,000 persons Tuesday.

Many of the sightseers had just paid 25 cents for the standard capitol guide tour when they were surprised to be escorted to the vice president's office just off the Senate floor.

Baker Advanced To Outstanding Boxer Rank

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (P) — National Boxing Association ratings advanced heavyweight Bob Baker of Pittsburgh to the rank of outstanding boxer, Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the NBA Championship Committee, said Tuesday.

Harold Johnson was restored to his old position of logical contender for light heavyweight title in

Also recognized were the new champions: welterweight king Tony DeMarco of Massachusetts and bantamweight Raton Macias of Mexico.

Ratings put Robert Cohen of French Algiers in the rank of logical contender for Macias' title.

Featherweight king Sandy Saddler is the only champion who has no logical contender for his title in the NBA ratings.

Stassen stood by his charges in a newspaper interview that the subcommittee staff members, Francis D. Flanagan and Robert F. Kennedy, made transcripts when they questioned his subordinates in 1953. Flanagan was then subcommittee general counsel and Kennedy an assistant. Kennedy is now chief counsel.

McCarthy accused Stassen of "smearing" Flanagan and Kennedy and said they should be called to contradict his testimony. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said the dispute was a "corollary" issue, and refused for the time being to call the staff members named by McCarthy.

Agreed to Start Over

Stassen had just told the subcommittee he will reject all bids on the disputed contract and start over again. It had been charged that the bid had been awarded to the highest of five bidders.

When Stassen insisted that transcripts were made of preliminary questioning during the subcommittee's 1953 investigation of East-West trade, McCarthy charged that Stassen "has just perjured himself . . . no transcripts were made."

"His case should be referred to the Justice Department even if he does hold the position he does."

It was then that Stassen smiled. "It should be referred to the grand jury for indictment," McCarthy later demanded.

Senior Class Play, 'The Curious Savage,' To Be Presented Thursday Night

"The Curious Savage," the 1955 lion dollars by her husband, and Senior class play, at the Harrisburg Township high school will be presented tomorrow night, April 7, at 8:15 in Bonnell gym.

Tickets are now on sale for the play at the following prices: Reserved—60c, adults—40c, and students—35c. Reserved seats may be obtained now by calling the high school office.

Mrs. Savage—the "Curious Savage"—an elderly lady who always carries a teddy bear around with her and who has lately been an actress, is played by Judy Belt. Mrs. Savage has been left ten mil-

Don't Expect Any Traffic Relief Soon

CHICAGO — The traffic problem in most American cities will get a lot worse before it gets any better, according to a survey by the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

A total of 35,000,000 families now own at least one car. More and more people are getting to where they want to go almost exclusively by car, furt her entangling traffic.

Other data collected by the AMA included:

Two-thirds of all workers living a mile or more from their jobs use automobiles to make the trip each day.

More than three-fourths of all those who live at least five miles from their work depend on passenger cars to get them to and from the job.

Registrations of cars, trucks and buses for 1954 were up more than 30,000 over 1953—making 56,313,281 registrations as compared to 53,294,493.

An extract made from bay leaves is used by barbers, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Maryland was the first, and for many years the only, state to proclaim religious toleration, hence "Free State."

The inmates at "The Cloisters" are played by Mona Azar, Judy Morse, Oren Brown, Barbara Dunn, and Carroll Clark. Florence, Mona Azar, is somewhat elegant and plans to send John Thomas, her imaginative son, to Princeton because the boys there are such gentlemen. Fairy May, Judy Morse, who wears steel-rimmed glasses and a pinned-together dress, has trouble making everyone believe there is a fire in the bathtub. Hannibal, Oren Brown, plays the violin and also thinks man was made all wrong. Mrs. Paddy, Barbara Dunn, is a woman of awesome ferocity who hates everything in the world and hasn't spoken a word in 20 years. Jeff, Carroll Clark, is a handsome man who does not like the nurse to kiss him.

At "The Cloisters," the role of Dr. Emmett, a noted psychiatrist who is tired of having his patients bullied, is played by Jean Abney, and Mona Healy plays the part of Miss Willy, the nurse, who says Jess couldn't possibly have stolen the bonds.

Throughout the quick action of the comedy the self-seeking step-children are driven to distraction by their vain efforts to get the money from their mother, who sends them out to hunt for it, which only ends in all sorts of ridiculous mishaps.

In "The Curious Savage," each character is clearly portrayed, and the audience is left with a feeling that the neglected virtues of kindness and affection have not been lost entirely in a world often motivated by greed and dishonesty. The dominant mood of the play is high comedy, though it also contains mystery and romance.

The cast of the play was introduced Friday in a general assembly by Wanda Smith, and the cast presented scenes from the play to-day in another assembly the third hour.

Other students helping with the presentation of the play are Susie Grammar, prompter; Dick Childress, stage manager. The Senior class sponsors who also have helped with the play are Miss K. Rice, chairman of ushers. Miss Bernice Patterson, chairman of ticket sales, Mrs. L. Cotheran, M. Cotheran, and John Schork, general chairmen. Marilyn Womack, Joyce Phelps, and Robin Wether are in charge of the tickets with the following students selling tickets: Mary Simpson, Marilyn Womack, Mona Azar, Susie Grammar, Judy Morse, Robin Wether, Charles Polk, Retha Lane, Mary Taylor, Jim Durham, Oren Brown and Jo Cathcart. A prize will be awarded to the boy and girl selling the most tickets.

Music will be furnished by the HTHS orchestra between acts of the play under the direction of Marshall Cotheran. The senior girls who will serve as ushers for the play are Marilyn Braunum, LaVerne Newcomb, Lila Lockaby, Nina McDaniel, and Gladie Austin.

"The Curious Savage" is the fortieth play to be directed by Mrs. Lolo Eddy and she feels this is one of her best productions. "The Curious Savage" will provide an evening full of laughs and entertainment for all. Curtain time is 8:15.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Job triumphed gloriously over physical disabilities. Some think these hardships simply an excuse to complain.

Sir Winston Churchill

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSOM
The retirement of Sir Winston Churchill from the active leadership of his country and his Conservative Party will be recorded as one of the great benchmarks in modern world history.

It is a sad occasion for free men, for giants are rare in any age. It is sadder still for him, because he leaves center stage with one great dream—the establishment of lasting peace—unfulfilled.

This man of blazing energy knows his place in history is secure. But he is not content with that place. It makes of him a great war leader, the man who brought a struggling island nation back from the brink of defeat. He would rather be remembered as the man who brought substance to men's wistful hopes for peace on this troubled earth.

That he should, at 80, be pressing toward so great a goal is thoroughly characteristic of Sir Winston. From his beginnings as a public figure he has always scaled his ambitions high. The free world was fortunate that those ambitions accorded so well with the advancement of its own security and well-being.

But Sir Winston's fellow humans will not now judge him so harshly as he would judge himself for failing to realize this last and greatest dream. His legions of grateful "constituents" throughout the world understand that in taking upon himself this task he assumed a burden that may well lie beyond the capacity of any one man or group of men in this tense time of history.

The exigencies of British politics compel his retirement at this moment. The tottering condition of the rival Labor Party is a beckoning invitation to the ruling Conservatives to call an early election to capitalize on their evident mounting advantage.

Sir Winston recognizes that not he but his designated successor, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, should be the one to stand before the voters in that test. And if Eden is to fit himself for such a test, he needs a trial period at the helm.

Sir Winston's admirers need not fret that he will pine away in retirement as would ordinary mortals, for all his disappointment. He is a truly universal man, with a wide diversity of interests and an incredible assortment of talents. He will write and paint and lay bricks.

More than that, he is sure to speak, as he always has, to a world that treasures his wisdom, his flair for dramatic, ringing words, and his power to lift men's hearts.

In this sense, Sir Winston will never lay down his load until he dies. He may retire from the mere leadership of his party or his country. But so long as men can hear his voice, he could not if he wished cast off the mantle of world leadership he has so nobly earned.

Other questions were whether those polled would favor a "use" tax on purchases made outside Illinois for use here, or a broadening of the sales tax base, or a preference to a sales tax increase.

The final question asked was whether a penny sales tax increase for one year or a half-cent increase for two years would be preferred.

After Jess Carmichael left, Johnny looked at the heap of dimes and pennies and quarters, then scooped them up in his hand. He spread them out on the bed, turned them all up, "heads" upwards. He examined them carefully, then turned them all over, so that the "tails" were up.

He sighed wearily.

The phone rang, startling Johnny. He scooped it up. "Yes?"

"Fletcher," a harsh voice said, "you want that gorilla friend of yours in one piece?"

"You haven't got Cragg," Johnny retorted.

"Oh, no? If he's with you, put him on the phone."

"All right," said Johnny. "Suppose he isn't here. What do you want from me?"

"I'll call you back. I ain't havin' this call traced."

The phone went dead. Johnny hung up and scowled at the phone. He scooped up the coins and looked around the room. He walked to the bathroom and saw the washing Sam had done the day before. On a sudden impulse he took down from the shower curtain rod one of the socks and poured the coins into it, shaking them down into the foot. He tied a knot into the top half of the sock, then taking down the other socks, threw the entire pile into a corner of the bathroom.

The phone rang out in the bedroom. He went back and picked it up.

"All right," said the harsh voice, "leave your hotel and walk down Forty-fifth to Seventh Avenue. A Lucky Clover taxicab will come along and—"

"Oh, go back to Peekskill," snapped Johnny, slamming the receiver back on the hook.

The phone rang again instantly. Johnny jerked it off the hook. "Go to Buffalo, then."

The voice of James Sutton exclaimed, "I say, Fletcher, that's no way to talk to a man."

"Oh, you!" growled Johnny. "Somebody else just called and I thought he was calling back."

"I'd like to talk to you," Sutton said. "I wonder if you could come over to my digs at the Barbizon-Waldorf."

"Can't right now. Busy."

"I'll make it worth your while."

"I'll try to make it in about an hour."

"All right, but sooner than that if you can. This may be important. It's something about Lester Smithson that I don't think you got at the Harover Club."

"Oh, you know I've been there?" Sutton chuckled. "You scared Whittlesey. An hour, then?"

Johnny agreed and hung up. He left the room and rode down to the lobby. Lieutenant Madigan sat in a far corner, reading a newspaper. Johnny looked around, saw Eddie Miller near the desk and walked up to him.

"Gosh, Mr. Fletcher," Eddie said. "I tried to warn you, but Mr. Peabody spilled it."

"I know, the louse."

"Mr. Cragg phoned from Peekskill. He said he was in jail up there."

"He isn't any more. That's why the cops are here. Sam broke out of jail."

"Ouch!" said Eddie. "Then Mr. Cragg is really in trouble."

"He is, and there isn't a thing I can do for him right now. He's somewhere between Peekskill and here."

"If I see him first, I'll try to give him the high sign. If only Peabody . . . which reminds me, I know the reason he's so sore. Some crook got into his room and swiped one of his suits, he claims."

"Serves him right."

"He thinks you stole it."

"Me?"

Eddie hesitated before replying.

"I don't think you did, but Peabody's really burned. He even searched your room."

"I didn't sell his old suit," Johnny said, accenting the word "sell."

"But it's an idea. If he doesn't lay off me, I might do something like that one of these days. . . .

Now if Sam happens in while I'm gone, try to tell him I'll get him out — somehow. He can't stand jails."

Johnny stepped up to the desk. He laid a $5 bill and a single on the desk and said to the clerk, "Have you got a roll of dimes and two rolls of pennies?"

The clerk was somewhat surprised, but took the bills. "I think I can spare them."

A short time later he got off

Architect Says State Executive Mansion is Imposing but 'Unsafe'

By WARREN H. STROTHER
United Press Staff Correspondent
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The 28-room white brick and stone mansion where Illinois governors live may be imposing, but "it isn't safe to live in," an architect said today.

Charles W. Chezem, executive assistant in the state architecture and engineering division, said that's why the Legislature has been asked to appropriate $84,000 for mansion repairs and equipment.

Chezem said the $84,000 project is designed only to "make the mansion safe to live in." The structure, 100 years old this year, would "practically have to be rebuilt" to make a complete rehabilitation, the architect said.

First Floor Is Weak
"The entire interior would have to be razed and rebuilt inside the masonry shell, just as they did the White House in Washington," Chezem said. "A new mansion could be built for the money it would cost to do that."

Chezem said the biggest trouble the state now seeks to correct is the building's first floor, which includes the governor's reception rooms and the state dining room.

"Get a crowd of people on that floor and it's liable to cave in," Chezem said.

Timbers which support the floor will be reinforced and strengthened, and new supports added on the ground level. Cracks and faults in the basement ceiling show all too clearly what the trouble is, Chezem said.

There are still other dangers for the governor and his family which the proposed repair project will correct.

Most dangerous is the old "knob-and-tube" wiring built into the mansion many years ago. Like many other old houses, the electrical wiring in the building isn't safe.

Wiring Is Inadequate

"Last year when they steamed the wallpaper off the walls of an upstairs room, the wall surfaces would shock you . . . indicating some awfully bad wire somewhere," Chezem said.

The building's wiring is inadequate to meet present-day needs. At Christmas, part of the building's light system had to be cut off to provide electricity for Christmas tree decorations.

The same thing goes for the plumbing — steam and water pipes, and the drainage system.
